Milkies Milk-Saver and Freeze from Fairhaven Health

October 1, 2014 by Lindsey G. — 35 Comments

Today's conversation about Milkies Milk-Saver is brought to you by Fairhaven Health. All opinions are my own.

If you're pregnant or nursing, currently trying to become pregnant, or have any plans of the future of becoming pregnant I have a source for you today that you're going to absolutely love. Go ahead and bookmark Fairhaven Health because believe me, you're going to want to. I only wish that I had known about this site over 4 years ago [even 2 years ago] when I was pregnant with both of my girls.

Fairhaven Health really is aiming to be a trusted source for you and your family. They offer Free Shipping [within the US], have become a trusted leader in the quality of products they carry, and offer outstanding service to their customers.

I struggled with breastfeeding both of my girls. I did it, yes, but it was a struggle to last as long as I did. I honestly feel like I had the support of my husband, but I didn't really know about breastfeeding. I wasn't educated on the vast amounts of products that really could have helped me to succeed. I think that's where Fairhaven Health could have really helped me – and where they are able to help other Moms too!

Today I'm sharing with you a fabulous line from Milkies which featured the Milk-Saver and Freeze. Both are fabulous products for breastfeeding Moms. First, let's look at the Milk-Saver. Honestly, these are a totally genius invention and it's something I could have really benefitted from while I was breastfeeding.

New breastfeeding Moms know all about "leaking". Whether it's while you're nursing or pumping, most of the time the breast that's not doing the feeding often leaks. If you're a mother with a low supply or any supply amount really, it's a shame to see all the breast milk that seems to just be wasted, right? That's where the Milk-Saver comes in. It collects the extra breast milk so that you can easily store it in the saver itself or a storage bag.

Speaking of storage bags, the Milkies Freeze is also a great product for any breastfeeding Mom.

The Milkies Freeze serves 2 fantastic purposes. First – the metal tray on the top of the container allows you to lay a storage bag of breast milk on the top so that it freezes flat. Once the bag of milk is frozen, you slide it into the Freeze container where it will go to the bottom. Then, when you're in need of frozen breast milk for a bottle [or to donate], you pull the bag from the bottom of the container – this ensures that you're always using the oldest of your stash! Genius, right?!

My friend, Janessa from Thrifty Nifty Mommy just reviewed both of these products, and a few others from the Milkies line as well. If you'd like to see them in action, check out her review here.

The Milkies Milk-Saver and Freeze can be purchased separately on Fairhaven Health or in a 'Save & Store Bundle' for $54.95. Be sure to look around at the vast products that Fairhaven Health offers Moms and Moms-to-be as well!
