Fertility, Pregnancy, and Nursing Products from Fairhaven Health Review

October 2, 2014 | Camille

DreamBelly Butter: $14.95

Pregnancy Wheel and Ovulation Calendar: $6.95

Belly Rest Pregnancy Pillow: $39.95

The topics of fertility, pregnancy, and nursing are huge with nearly any group of women I get together with. If babies are on the mind, my friends and I can't help but find nearly every conversation drift towards some aspect of these, ranging from "So how do I conceive a girl?", "How do I avoid stretch marks?", and "Is nursing always going to be this painful?". Those of us who have been around the block before are quick to answer with our favorite remedies and solutions and since Fairhaven Health provided me with a huge variety of their products at no cost to facilitate this review, I'm excited to share my opinion about some of these amazing things and recommend them to my friends and our readers!

Look at all these treasures! As you can see, here we have a variety of the pregnancy and nursing products. There are many more on the Fairhaven Health website, including natural fertility products like supplements, fertility yoga DVDs, ibasal thermometers, fertility tea, and ovulation test strips. I remember when we were first trying to conceive, and when we were unsuccessful for a number of months, feeling so helpless about the situation, but as soon as I started looking into products that might help, I felt completely empowered, optimistic, and hopeful again! I know many people have strong opinions about this matter, but if you are trying to conceive, and are feeling discouraged, trying some of these remedies and supplements instead of just leaving things up to chance might really help! I know that for me, putting faith into some new possible solution, whether it actually helped or not, gave me the hope and optimism to relax about the whole matter, and we quickly conceived shortly thereafter.

Now that I'm in the pregnancy stage, (and I'm feeling SO pregnant lately, even though I'm just over halfway there), everything is starting to hurt, nothing is comfortable, and the next few months are going to get rough! I gladly welcomed anything Fairhaven was willing to send! One of their great pregnancy products is this DreamBelly Butter, which is a natural formula intended for soothing, protecting, and healing stretch marks. I have some impressive stretch marks, let me tell you, and I'm really trying to baby them this time around. The little tears in my skin still need protection and I'm trying to keep them from tearing more and becoming worse by keeping my skin hydrated with this DreamBelly Butter. When it comes to stretch mark creams, this is a great one. While still remaining thick and strong, it smooths and smears easily while absorbing quickly without feeling sticky or slimy afterwards. It contains natural, plant-derived butters and oils that won't irritate your skin, but soothe and moisturize to promote the elasticity your skin needs to cope with all the growing and stretching it is doing. The butter has a nice subtle scent and the 4 oz. in the jar will be just right to last through the remainder of my pregnancy. I've been putting it on just before bed, and enjoying my sleep itch-free.
